HARISONA – BALENCIA ON DIGITAL PLATFORMS RIGHT NOW

Traduction : Vanpoucke Ludyvine

Only one number to remember : 8 years. 8 years spent composing, playing and developing the slightly strange universe of Harisona. No worries I'm used to it. Since school I have always been the cool but weird guy. Well that's okay with me (at 86.9 per cent). An overall sensation of world music and suddenly a pop touch, then a folk-raggae song or a Spanish atmosphere followed by a rock song, a romantic love song, a darker one and a lighter one oddly bizarre (normal! I'm weird!) mix everything and you'll get my style. Don't look for one particular style anymore, look for a character. We've been two people since the beginning. Harisona is as much guitar as it is percussions and lyrics, yes I'm careful about lyrics, some sentences I had to work on for months (especially one or two). Melodies too but melodies are more obvious to me, they sound in my head all the time.

So yeah, let's close this 8 years' chapter and turn the page. Balencia is THE song that made us famous along with My Love. The album was recorded 5 years ago (time passes by so quickly!) and I decided to add an interpretation of the Rolling Stones' Paint It Black that we play at the end of our gigs. A special dedication from Balencia to Andy Pyatt who plays the guitar wonderfully.

The year 2012 is a turning point and I like turning points. Emeric Chauvet still plays percussions, Isabelle Dici the violin and she sings. Other musicians may join along. The emotion, the motivation and the pleasure of playing are stronger than ever, which is good since you like the new songs and the new group (especially since we include all our songs).

What else can I say? Please support our totally self produced move by buying the album to allow me doing a new one next year.

Last thing: you can find my personal selection of the 12 works that sum up more than 30 published songs on <http://noomiz.com/harisona>.

Have fun ladies and gents!

Thanks
